PILGRIMAGE TO ST. RITA'S

Sierra Madre witnessed a notable event in the annals of Southern California's religious life when, on last Sunday slightly over a thousand pilgrims visited the shrine of St. Rita's in the Catholic church of that name.

Although there were visitors from a number of towns of the county, most of them came from Los Angeles including a number of tourists from the Eastern States.

Upon arriving at the church the pilgrims assembled for prayer to invoke the intercession of St. Rita for the success of the pious work; then symbolizing the tedious journeys that pilgrims of other days made through the length of Europe to the Holy places in Jerusalem, they filed three abreast in a procession that stretched over three city blocks to the grounds of Mrs. A. Schmidt on Sycamore Place, praying in unison the while.

After partaking of a picnic lunch on individual groups gathered in prayer returned to the shrine, where at 2 o'clock further services were held until 4, the ceremony concluding with the solemn procession of the Blessed Sacrament about the church, as is the custom at the famous shrine of Our Lady of Lourdes in France.

One universal topic of conversation was the beauty and charm of the hillside location of the new home the Saint had chosen.

Inquiries about the attractions and conveniences of Sierra Madre were numerous, many touring the town in their autos after the service.

Father Woodcutter, whose wide experience with religious festivals in Canada and Europe proved so valuable, was the recipient of many congratulations upon the unexpected magnitude of the pilgrimage.

St. Rita's shrine has assumed a permanent place in Sierra Madre's attractions and in Catholic activity in Southern California. Numerous inquiries have been received and it is expected there will be pilgrimages from now on with regularity. ***

NEAR EAST RELIEF FUND

The citizens of Sierra Madre will be glad to learn that the quota of $517.00 for the Near East Relief fund has not only been subscribed but the amount has been exceeded by a few dollars.

The plan adopted of non-soliciting was accepted with some reluctance, but it has proven successful and goes to show that any worthy cause in its appeal will always be met with generosity.

There are some, no doubt, who have not as yet taken advantage of the opportunity to subscribe to this fund and who are desirous of doing so.

Mr. Charles Forman, treasurer of the fund, has kindly consented to continue in this office and all who want to give will please send the amount of their subscription to him.

The amount of $48.85 was collected by the school children and their teachers and is especially generous, and congratulations are extended.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

Mrs. J. E. Appleby was pleasantly surprised by a number of friends on Tuesday, March 17, the affair being given in honor of her birthday, and arranged by Miss Yerde Appleby and Mrs. H. I. Hawxhurst.

The rooms were beautifully decorated with pink roses and greenery.

The afternoon was spent in sewing, and Mrs. H. I. Hawxhurst and Mrs. James N. Hawks sang a number of Scotch and Irish songs, which were greatly enjoyed. Later delicious refreshments were served. About ten guests were present.

SECOND HAND STORE

C. E. Dolloff and family are new residents here. They drove through from Massachusetts and after looking the country over chose Sierra Madre as their future home. Two sons, Herbert and Sherburne, are attending school, the former in Pasadena High, and the latter here.

Mr. and Mrs. Dolloff have opened a second hand store just south of Sander's old stand.

SUNRISE ON MT. WILSON

(The Christian Science Monitor)

Within an hour's ride of Los Angeles, rising into the misty sky nearly 6000 feet above the city, Mt. Wilson forms a well-loved part of the Sierra Madre mountain range. Walkers and motorists both take the friendly, winding trail or road up the heights, rising for eight or nine miles from a quiet valley up the foothills and on to the peaks of the summit, where a great solar observatory is situated.

Much of the motor road has been blasted through the solid rock. The trail likewise skirts cliffs, and gives variety and welcome change when it dips into cool nooks under odoriferous trees where brooks sing a song over rocks and fallen tree boughs.

In the winter when the valleys below with their spreading acres of orange groves lie bathed in sunshine the summit of Mt. Wilson is covered with snow, and the road and trail change their habiliments. Then it is a favorite sport to climb the mountain during the night, arriving at the top in time to view the sunrise. Such a trip at full-moon time is beautiful. The moonlight, flooding down upon foothill, hollow and peak, casts a silver glow over every bush and tree until the whole scene lies in a mist of silver. Halfway up the height, one turns back to look at the clouds below, rolling in on all sides like a mighty ocean.

Reaching the summit, the first streak of dawn appears, a faint glow of pink at the horizon. All is quiet, a sort of expectant stillness. The rosy glow spreads and deepens. Here and there a bird twitters, another day is dawning. Then there comes a flash of pale yellow; quickly it spreads, widening, deepening, and broadening into a vivid orange. Brighter and brighter the glow becomes; it is as if a furnace of molten gold were just beyond the horizon. And then—the sun! Like a livid ball of gold it rolls over the distant mountains. Another day has begun. The stillness is broken, hundreds of birds are singing, and laughing voices are heard—of children and grown-ups as they tumble in the snow, snowballing each other and tobogganing on the hillside.

Soon tiring of the sport, party after party starts the downward trip, reaching the valley a couple of hours later—the valley with its sunshine, oranges, roses, and palms, in full contrast to the scenes above. The more ambitious ones are off for a two-hour trolley trip to the beach to take a dip in the surf.

MARRIED

The marriage of Miss Wava A. Boub to Mr. Floyd E. Cook took place on Tuesday, March 16, at the home of her uncle, C. J. Boub, at 235 South Baldwin avenue, the Rev. W. J. Thompson, pastor of the Congregational church officiating.

The rooms were beautifully decorated for the occasion with spring blossoms and greenery, and an arch was formed of the same blossoms, under which the young couple stood during the ceremony.

The bride was lovely in a gown of imported blue satin with silver over lace and carried a bouquet of roses with orange blossoms.

The groom has recently returned from service overseas and was a captain of the 116th supply train from South Dakota.

Following the wedding a dinner was served to immediate relatives who are wintering in California, and later the happy couple left on a honeymoon to Long Beach and other points of interest and will be at home after April 16th at Frankfort, South Dakota, where the groom is engaged in business.

AUTOMOBILE THIEVES

Marshal Udell picked up a stolen and abandoned automobile last week, at Lima and Live Oak and turned it in to the sheriff's office at Los Angeles.

The machine, a Buick 6, belonged to the Gibson Taxicab company of Los Angeles and was hired by two men to drive them to Alhambra. One of them, about 25 years old, wore a soldier uniform with crossed guns on shoulders and leather leggings; the other was a youth of about 18 dressed in civilian clothes.

At Fremont Road and Huntington Drive one of the men struck the driver over the head with an iron bar, knocking him unconscious. He was dumped into the tonneau with the soldier-dressed man, and the younger one took charge of the wheel. When the taxi driver recovered consciousness again he quietly obtained possession of the iron bar and with a quick jump smashed it over the head of the soldier-dressed man and jumped from the machine, making his way by trolley to Los Angeles.

Wayne Bradford discovered the abandoned machine and notified Marshal Udell, who set the official thief-catching machinery of the county in motion.

Tarzan and The Jewels of Opar

By EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

Author of "TARZAN OF THE APES," "SON OF TARZAN"

Copyright, 1918, A. C. McClurg & Co.

JOHN CLAYTON, LORD GREYSTOKE, TARZAN OF THE APES—

Synopsis.—Hiding in the jungle after killing his captain in a fit of brooding madness, Lieut. Albert Werper, Belgian officer, is captured by Achmet Zek, Arab slave raider, who spares his life and proposes to him a scheme to kidnap Jane, wife of Tarzan (Lord Greystoke) and sell her into slavery. Werper accepts. Posing as Jules Freccout, French traveler, Werper is hospitably received by the Greystokes. He learns his host is in financial straits and is planning an expedition to the treasure vaults of Opar to procure gold. Werper informs Achmet Zek of the opportunity to seize Lady Greystoke, and follows Tarzan to learn the secret of Opar. Spying on Tarzan, Werper sees him load his blacks with gold from the treasure chamber of the Sun Worshipers. A convulsion of Nature causes the collapse of the vault, imprisoning both men. Werper recovers from the shock and leaves Tarzan apparently dead. Seeking a way to safety Werper is seized by priests of the Flaming God, a degenerate race. He is about to be offered up as a sacrifice when the ceremonies are interrupted by the appearance of a hunger-maddened lion. Believing Tarzan dead his black followers return home with the gold. Achmet Zek, acting on Werper's information, has attacked the Greystoke home, burned it, and carried off Lady Greystoke. Mugambi, Tarzan's lieutenant, is severely wounded but recovers and follows the raiders. Lord Greystoke recovers consciousness, but the accident has destroyed his memory and he is again Tarzan of the Apes. He finds himself in the jewel room of Opar. He fills his pouch with "pretty pebbles"—cut diamonds of great value. He reaches the sacrificial chamber just as the lion has the sacrifice of Werper by La. He is recognized by La, high priestess, whom he had known in previous years. He slays the lion and releases Werper. Tarzan and Werper watch the former's party return and bury the gold. Tarzan has no memory of the place. Werper steals the diamonds and escapes to Achmet Zek's stronghold. Lady Greystoke is there, a prisoner. Werper tells the Arab of the gold, but not of the diamonds.

Achmet Zek thought for a moment. The buried gold was of much greater value than the price the woman would bring. It was necessary to rid himself of her as quickly as possible and it was also well to obtain the gold with the least possible delay. Of all his followers the Belgian was the most logical lieutenant to intrust with the command of one of the parties. An Arab, as familiar with the trails and tribes as Achmet Zek himself, might collect the woman's price and make good his escape into the far north. Werper, on the other hand, could scarce make his escape alone through a country hostile to Europeans, while the men he would send with the Belgian could be carefully selected with a view to preventing Werper from persuading any considerable portion of his command to accompany him should he contemplate desertion of his chief.

At last the Arab spoke: "It is not necessary that we both return for the gold. You shall go north with the woman, carrying a letter to a friend of mine who is always in touch with the best markets for such merchandise, while I return for the gold. We can meet again here when our business is concluded."

Werper could scarce disguise the joy with which he received this welcome decision. And that he did entirely disguise it from the keen and suspicious eyes of Achmet Zek is open to question. However, the decision reached, the Arab and his lieutenant discussed the details of their forthcoming ventures for a short time further, when Werper made his excuses and returned to his own tent for the comforts and luxury of a long-desired bath and shave.

Having bathed, the Belgian tied a small hand mirror to a cord sewn to the rear wall of his tent, placed a rude chair beside an equally rude table that stood beside the glass and proceeded to remove the rough stubble from his face.

In the catalogue of masculine pleasures there is scarce one which imparts a feeling of greater comfort and refreshment than follows a clean shave, and now, with weariness temporarily banished, Albert Werper sprawled in his rickety chair to enjoy a final cigarette before retiring. His thumbs, tucked in his belt in lazy support of the weight of his arms, touched the belt which held the jewel pouch about his waist. He tingled with excitement as he let his mind dwell upon the value of the treasure, which, unknown to all save himself, lay hid beneath his clothing.

He unfastened the belt and drew the pouch from its hiding place. He was alone. The balance of the camp, save the sentries, had retired—none would enter the Belgian's tent. He hefted the bag, first in one palm, then in the other, and at last he wheeled his chair slowly around before the table, and in the rays of his small lamp let the glittering gems roll out upon the rough wood.

The refulgent rays transformed the interior of the soiled and squalid canvas to the splendor of a palace, in the eyes of the dreaming man. He dreamed of joys and luxuries and power which always had been beyond his grasp, and as he dreamed his gaze lifted from the table, as the gaze of a dreamer will, to a far distant goal above the mean horizon of terrestrial commonplace.

Unseeing, his eyes rested upon the shaving mirror which hung upon the tent wall above the table; but his sight was focused far beyond. And then a reflection moved within the polished surface of the tiny glass, the man's eyes shot back out of space to the mirror's face, and in it saw reflected the grim visage of Achmet Zek, framed in the flaps of the tent doorway behind him.

Werper stifled a gasp of dismay. With rare self-possession he let his gaze drop without appearing to have halted upon the mirror, until it rested again upon the gems. Without haste, he replaced them in the pouch, tucked the latter into his shirt, selected a cigarette from his case, lighted it and rose. Yawning, and stretching his arms above his head, he turned slowly toward the opposite end of the tent. The face of Achmet Zek had disappeared from the opening.

To say that Albert Werper was terrified would be putting it mildly. He realized that he not only had sacrificed his treasure; but his life as well. Achmet Zek would never permit the wealth that he had discovered to slip through his fingers, nor would he forgive the duplicity of a lieutenant who had gained possession of such a treasure without offering to share it with his chief.

Slowly the Belgian prepared for bed. If he were being watched, he could not know; but if so the watcher saw no indication of the nervous excitement which the European strove to conceal. When ready for his blankets, the man crossed to the little table and extinguished the light.

It was two hours later that the flaps at the front of the tent separated silently and gave entrance to a dark-robed figure, which passed noiselessly from the darkness without to the darkness within. Cautiously the prowler crossed the interior. In one hand was a long knife. He came at last to the pile of blankets spread upon several rugs close to one of the tent walls.

Lightly, his fingers sought and found the bulk beneath the blankets—the bulk that should be Albert Werper. They traced out the figure of a man, and then an arm shot upward, poised for an instant and descended. Again and again it rose and fell, and each time the long blade of the knife buried itself in the thing beneath the blankets. But there was an initial lifelessness in the silent bulk that gave the assassin momentary wonder. Feverishly he threw back the coverlets and searched with nervous hands for the pouch of jewels which he expected to find concealed upon his victim's body.

An instant later he rose with a curse upon his lips. It was Achmet Zek, and he cursed because he had discovered beneath the blankets of his lieutenant only a pile of discarded clothing arranged in the form and semblance of a sleeping man—Albert Werper had fled.

Out into the village ran the chief, calling in angry tones to the sleepy Arabs, who tumbled from their tents in answer to his voice. But though they searched the village again and again they found no trace of the Belgian. Foaming with anger, Achmet Zek called his followers to horse, and though the night was pitchy black they set out to scour the adjoining forest for their quarry.

As they galloped from the open gates, Mugambi, hiding in a nearby bush, slipped, unseen, within the palisade. In the darkness he passed, unchallenged, and for an hour he crept about in the rear of the various huts and tents in an effort to locate that in which his master's mate was imprisoned. One there was which he was reasonably assured contained her, for it was the only hut before the door of which a sentry had been posted. Mugambi was crouching in the shadow of this structure, just around the corner from the unsuspecting guard, when another approached to relieve his comrade.

"The prisoner is safe within?" asked the newcomer.

"She is," replied the other, "for none has passed this doorway since I came."

The new sentry squatted beside the door, while he whom he had relieved made his way to his own hut. Mugambi slunk closer to the corner of the building. In one powerful hand he gripped a heavy knob-stick. No sign of elation disturbed his phlegmatic calm, yet inwardly he was aroused to joy by the proof he had just had that "Lady" really was within.

The sentry's back was toward the corner of the hut which hid the giant black. The fellow did not see the huge form which silently loomed behind him. The knob-stick swung upward in a curve, and downward again. There was the sound of a dull thud, the crushing of heavy bone, and the sentry slumped into a silent, inanimate lump of clay.

A moment later Mugambi was searching the interior of the hut. At first slowly calling "Lady!" in a low whisper and finally with almost frantic haste until the truth presently dawned upon him—the hut was empty!

CHAPTER IX.

Tarzan Becomes a Beast Again.

For a moment Werper had stood above the sleeping ape-man his murderous knife poised for the fatal thrust; but fear stayed his hand. What if the first blow should fail to drive the point to his victim's heart? Werper shuddered in contemplation of the disastrous consequences to himself.

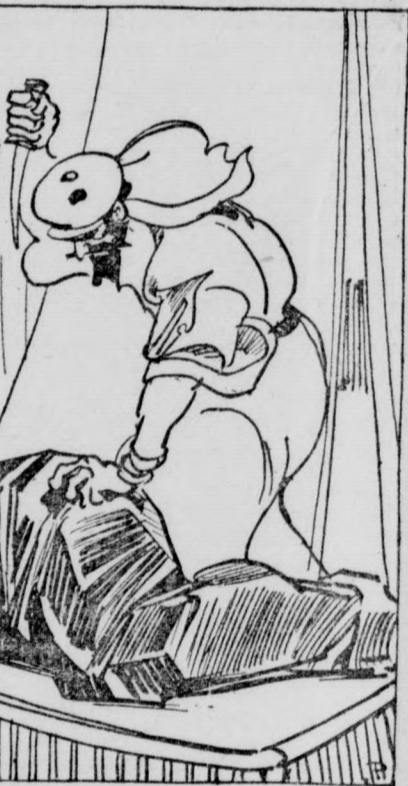

Again came the soft sound of padded footsteps in the reeds—closer this time. He abandoned his design. Before him stretched the wide plain and escape. The jewels were in his possession. To remain longer was to risk death at the hands of Tarzan, or the jaws of the hunter creeping ever nearer. Turning, he slunk away through the night, toward the distant forest.

Tarzan slept on. Where were those uncanny guardian powers that had formerly rendered him immune from the dangers of surprise? Could this dull sleeper be the alert, sensitive Tarzan of old?

Perhaps the blow upon his head had numbed his senses temporarily—who may say? Closer crept the stealthy creature through the reeds. The rustling curtain of vegetation parted a few paces from where the sleeper lay, and the massive head of a lion appeared.

It was the beating of the beast's tail against the reeds which awakened Tarzan. Jungle folk do not awaken slowly—instincts, full consciousness and full command of their every faculty returns to them from the depth of profound slumber.

Even as Tarzan opened his eyes he was upon his feet, his spear grasped firmly in his hand and ready for attack. Again was he Tarzan of the Apes, sentient, vigilant, ready.

Again and Again It Rose and Fell.

Whether it was surprise, fear or caution which prompted the lion crouching ready to spring upon the man, is immaterial—the fact remains that he did not carry out his original design, he did not spring at the man at all, but, instead, wheeled and sprang back into the reeds as Tarzan arose and confronted him.

The ape-man shrugged his broad shoulders and looked about for his companion. Werper was nowhere to be seen. At first Tarzan was puzzled; but presently came to the conclusion that Werper had been frightened by the approach of the lion and had sneaked off in terror. A sneer touched Tarzan's lips as he pondered the man's act—the desertion of a comrade in time of danger, and without warning. Well, if that was the sort of creature Werper was, Tarzan wished nothing more of him. He had gone, and for all the ape-man cared, he might remain away—Tarzan would not search for him.

A hundred yards from where he stood grew a large tree, alone upon the edge of the reedy jungle. Tarzan made his way to it, clambered into it, and finding a comfortable perch among its branches, reposed himself for uninterrupted sleep until morning.

And when morning came Tarzan opened his eyes, stretched his giant thews, yawned, rose and gazed about him through the leafy foliage of his retreat. Across the wasted meadow lands and fields of John Clayton, Lord Greystoke, Tarzan of the Apes looked, as a stranger, upon the moving figures of Basuli at his graves as they prepared their morning meal, and made ready to set out upon the expedition which Basuli had planned after discovering the havoc and disaster which had befallen the estate of his dead master.

The ape-man eyed the blacks with curiosity. In the back of his brain loitered a fleeting sense of familiarity with all that he saw, yet he could not connect any of the various forms of life, animate and inanimate, which had fallen within the range of his vision since he had emerged from the darkness of the pits of Opar, with any particular event of the past.

He watched the blacks scatter their cook fire and depart; but though the face of each of them had but recently been as familiar to him as his own they awakened within him no recollections whatsoever.

When they had gone, he descended from the tree and sought food. A plump young zebra mare and a stallion grazed nearest to him as he neared the herd. It was instinct which selected the former for his meat. A low bush grew but a few yards from the unsuspecting two. The ape-man reached its shelter. He gathered his spear firmly in his grasp. Cautiously he drew his foot beneath him. In a single swift move he rose and cast his heavy weapon at the mare's side. Nor did he wait to note the effect of his assault, but leaped catlike after his spear his hunting knife in his hand.

For an instant the two animals stood motionless. The tearing of the cruel barb into her side brought a sudden scream of pain and fright from the mare, and then they both wheeled and broke for safety; but Tarzan of the Apes, for a distance of a few yards, could equal the speed of even these, and the first stride of the mare found her overhauled, with a savage beast at her shoulder. She turned, biting and kicking at her foe. Her mate hesitated for an instant, as though about to rush to her assistance; but a backward glance revealed to him the flying heels of the balance of the herd, and with a snort and a shake of his head he wheeled and dashed away.

Clinging with one hand to the short mane of his quarry, Tarzan struck again and again with his knife at the unprotected heart. The result had, from the first, been inevitable. The mare fought bravely, but hopelessly, and presently sank to the earth, her heart pierced. The ape-man placed a foot upon her carcass and raised his voice in the victory call of the Mangani.

Tarzan grasped his kill and dragged it to the partial seclusion of the bush which had hidden his own near approach, and there he squatted upon it, cut a huge hunk of flesh from the loin and proceeded to satisfy his hunger with the warm and dripping meat.

Attracted by the shrill screams of the mare a pair of hyenas slunk presently into view. They trotted to a point a few yards from the gorging ape-man and halted. Tarzan looked up, bared his fighting fangs and growled. The hyenas returned the compliment, and withdrew a couple of paces. They made no move to attack; but continued to sit at a respectful distance until Tarzan had concluded his meal. After the ape-man had cut a few strips from the carcass to carry with him, he walked slowly off in the direction of the river to quench his thirst. His way lay directly toward the hyenas, nor did he alter his course because of them.

With all the lordly majesty of Numa, the lion, he strode straight toward the growling beasts. For a moment they held their ground, bristling and defiant; but only for a moment, and then slunk away to one side while the indifferent ape-man passed them on his lordly way. A moment later they were tearing at the remains of the zebra.

At the river, Tarzan drank his fill and bathed. During the heat of the day he lay up under the shade of a tree near the ruins of his burned barns. His eyes wandered out across the plain toward the forest, and a longing for the pleasures of his mysterious depths possessed his thoughts for a considerable time. With the next sun he would cross the open and enter the forest! There was no hurry—there lay before him an endless vista of tomorrows with naught to fill them but the satisfying of the appetites and caprices of the moment. Recalling only dimly any other existence, the ape-man was happy. Lord Greystoke had ceased to exist.

La seeks vengeance on Tarzan for her spurned love.

Cloth From Pineapples.

Aside from its edible qualities the pineapple is little known in this country, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. In China, however, it is especially cultivated for the use of the leaves in making cloth. The fiber is extracted from the leaves by a simple process and made into thread. It is then run on bobbins and spools and is ready for weaving, the old native looms being employed.

The Core of the Afternoon.

Little Marjorie, who is three, told her mother the other evening that while the mother was uptown shopping in the afternoon the little girl had been taken by a servant to call on her father in the latter's office.

"What time did you go?" asked the mother.

"Oh, in the core of the afternoon," replied the little girl.

"Mother doesn't understand what you mean by the 'core' of the afternoon," it was explained to Marjorie.

"Why, I mean the middle," she said simply, as if wondering at the ignorance of grown folks.

What He Needed.

Mr. Greenby decided to grow vegetables, and straightway paid a visit to the nearest store to buy the necessary seed.

The salesman showed him samples of the various kinds of potatoes as a start off, but Mr. Greenby could find none to suit.

"I am afraid these will not do," he remarked. Then in a confidential whisper, he added: "You see, I have only two teeth in my head, and unfortunately they are not opposite one another. Haven't you any mashed potato seed?"—Pearson's Weekly.

YOUNGSTERS!

Need "Cascarets" when Sick, Bilious, Constipated.

When your child is bilious, constipated, sick or full of cold; when the little tongue is coated, breath bad and stomach sour, get a box of Cascarets and straighten the little one right up. Children gladly take this harmless candy cathartic and it cleanses the little liver and bowels without griping. Cascarets contain no calomel or dangerous drugs and can be depended upon to move the sour bile, gases and indigestible waste right out of the bowels. Best family cathartic because it never cramps, sickens or causes inconvenience.—Adv.

FINALLY SEVERED RED TAPE

But Messenger Had to Declare Himself Emphatically Before He Got That Ice Book.

The quartermaster's department had conferred upon me authority to buy for the sum of $6 an ice book good for 2,000 pounds of ice and had sent me to this building, headed up "Commissary," for the goods. The first clerk I saw did not question my good intentions or my legal and military right to buy that ice book somewhere in the building, but was doubtful of his authority to sell it to me. He lacked self-confidence.

He said: "Go to the other end of the building."

And he said: "Go to the other side of the building."

And he said: "Go to the other end of the building."

And I said: "D— it. I've been to three ends and five sides of this building and I go no further. If you've got an ice book—and I have reasons for believing you have—I ask you as man to man to give it us."

He said: "Sir, it is yours."—Bookman.

DO ALL MY HOUSEWORK

Before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I could hardly stand, says Mrs. Kwarcinski.

Chicago, Ill.—"I suffered with displacement and irregularities and I did not know what to do. My mother advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and use the Sanative Wash so I took her advice and used these remedies and cured myself. I feel fine and do all my housework which I could not do before, as I could hardly stand up and I have three healthy children. You can use this letter if you wish, for your remedy is certainly wonderful for sick, run down women."—Mrs. A. KWARCINSKI, 3527 W. Oakdale Ave., Chicago, Ill.

For forty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been making women strong and well, relieving backache, nervousness, ulceration, and inflammation, weakness, displacements, irregularities and periodic pains. It has also proved invaluable in preparing for childbirth and the Change of Life.

Women who suffer are invited to write for free and helpful advice to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. It is free and always helpful.

All Going Smoothly.

The chaplain came plodding along the road coming back from the front lines several hours after the infantry had gone over the top.

"How are things going up there?" inquired an artillery lieutenant.

"Fine, fine," said the chaplain.

"We're knocking them for a goal."

"Haven't seen many prisoners," said the lieutenant skeptically.

"No, I guess you won't," replied the chaplain, "our machine guns haven't jammed all morning."—The Home Sector.

BACK GIVEN OUT?

There's surely some reason for that lame, aching back. Likely it's your kidneys. A cold or strain sometimes congests the kidneys and slows them up. That may be the reason for that nagging backache, those sharp pains, that tired, worn-out feeling. You may have headaches and dizzy spells, too, with annoying bladder irregularity. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. They have helped thousands. Ask your neighbor!

Before I used Doan's I was weak and about crippled with lame back. I suffered with piercing pains in my back and had bladder complaint. Doan's gave me the good health and strength I have now and they deserve a lot of credit."

She Had Spoiled Daddy.

Her father gave Helen several things for Christmas which she wanted very much, and she kept kissing him to show her gratitude. A day or two after Christmas he brought home a belated gift which didn't particularly interest her, and she offered no gratitude.

SILENT ENGINE IS MOST IDEAL

Comparatively Easy to Eliminate Noise by Following Plan as Outlined.

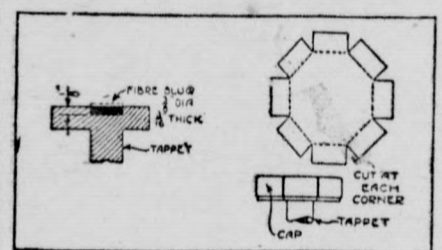

TAPPETS ARE RESPONSIBLE

Circular Piece of Fiber, Hard Lead or Copper Caps May Be Used—Another Plan Is to Place Card-board Around Valve.

A silent engine is the ideal of all who own or drive cars. The valve tappets are responsible for a great deal of engine noise and it is comparatively easy to eliminate it.

Remove the valve tappets from the engine case. Find the center and drill a 3/8-in. hole 1/8-inch deep in the face of the tappet. Then cut a circular piece of fiber, 3/16 in. thick, to fit the hole tightly. Place the piece of fiber in the hole and give it two or three sharp blows with a hammer to seat it properly. File off flush with the top of tappet and finish the surface with fine emery cloth.

Hard lead or copper caps may be fastened to the tops of tappets. The caps can be formed of No. 18 hard lead or No. 22 copper over the top of the tappets, by cutting a circular piece of the material 1/4 in. greater in diameter than the top of the tappet, cutting the edges at each corner of the tappet and pounding down the edges.

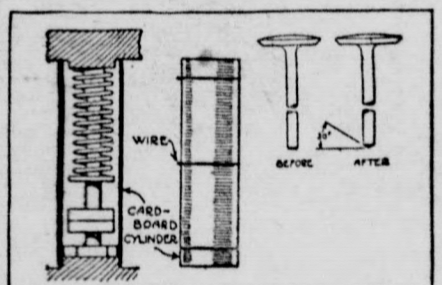

Hard Lead or Copper Is Cut in the Manner Shown.

Be sure the cap is down tight on the tappet and that it is soldered fast around the edge.

Another method that can be resorted to is to place cardboard cylinders around the valve-stems and tappets. Take a piece of cardboard, shellac one side of it, and cut it so that it will just fit the valve housing. Then wrap it around the tappet and valve-spring, with the shellac side in, and fasten it with bands of soft iron wire at the top, bottom and center. Be sure that there is enough clearance for the valve-spring to work. After it is in place shellac the outside, as this will prevent the oil from soaking into the cardboard.

If a repair shop is available the valves may be removed and placed in a lathe. With a turning tool taper the end sharply to about a 30-degree angle. Care must be taken to get the valve centered in the lathe, for if the points are the least bit off they will cause a side thrust to the valves when replaced in the engine.—James Linday, in Popular Science Monthly.

BE SURE AIR VENT IS OPEN

This Is to Allow Gasoline to Flow Into Carburetor From Bottom of Supply Tank.

In the cap on the filler hole in a gravity feed tank you will usually find a small hole. This is to allow air to enter at the top so that the gasoline can flow into the carburetor from the bottom. If gasoline fails to reach the carburetor, though there is plenty in the tank, make sure that this air vent is open, before trying to locate a stoppage in the line.

AUTO-CARRIER HAS GREAT CARRYING POWER

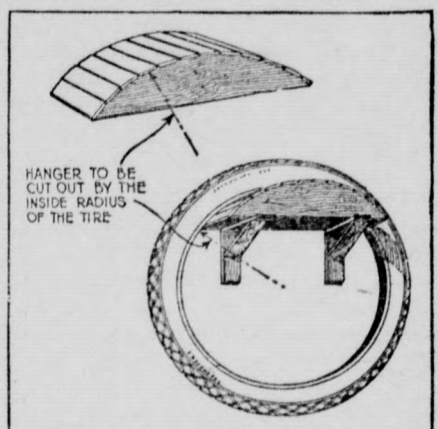

The photograph shows a new motor vehicle called the "auto-carrier junior," and is equipped with twin driving wheels in the rear, which get their power direct from the motor contained between them. Great speed, carrying power and durability are claimed for this model, one of those in favor at the recent auto and motorcycle show at Olympia, England.

PRESERVE SHAPE OF STORED AUTO TIRES

Illustration Shows Satisfactory Type of Hanger.

Device Is Made of Few Boards and Mounted on Brackets Constructed of Strips of Wood—How It Is Put Together.

There are very few public or private garages that have not at least one tire not in use. The usual method of storing these spares is to hang them on large nails or hooks. This may do for a day or two, but if left for any length of time the tire will assume an irregular lar shape and a weak spot will develop where the nail has been when the tire is put into use.

The illustration shows a type of hanger that may be made wide enough to accommodate a pair of tires, or even more, and will keep them in their original shape. It is made of a few boards and mounted on brackets constructed of 3-in. strips of wood. The sides are curved to fit the inside of the tire and short pieces of board are nailed across their upper edges. The tire is thus supported on about a third of its circumference and so held in shape.—Charles R. Fisher, in Popular Science Monthly.

CLEANING AUTO REFLECTORS

First Wash Off All Particles of Dirt With Hot Water, Then Wipe Surface With Alcohol.

(By FRED G. PERSON, State Agricultural College, Fort Collins, Colo.)

In cleaning the reflectors, first wash off all particles of dirt and dirt with a stream or spray of hot water. The hot water is most conveniently applied with a syringe. Do not apply it with a cloth. Then take a piece of absorbent cotton saturated with alcohol and wipe off the surface of the reflector. This procedure will remove all dirt and grease and leave the surface dry and clean. Do not attempt to clean the reflector with a handkerchief or with polishing powders of any kind.

TO LUBRICATE AUTO SPRINGS

Apply Mixture of Cup Grease and Graphite by Jacking Up Car and Spreading Leaves.

The best method of lubricating the springs of your auto is to jack the weight of the car off of them, then force the leaves of the springs apart with a screw driver or spring spreader and put between them a mixture of cup grease and graphite.

AUTOMOBILE GOSSIP

If gasoline drips from the carburetor when the car is standing and the engine is not running the needle valve connected with the float should be investigated.

The great deal of clutch trouble for which the owner can find no obvious cause is due to the fact that the clutch shaft is out of true with the center of the flywheel.

A drill can be made to cut an over-size hole by grinding one cutting edge a little longer than the other. This is a scheme that is useful in an emergency, when a hole must be made of a size for which there is no drill.

SALTS IF BACKACHE AND KIDNEYS HURT

Stop Eating Meat for a While if Your Bladder Is Troubling You.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink.—Adv.

Important to all Women Readers of this Paper

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition. Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be dependent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine, will do for them. By enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., you may receive sample size bottle by Parcel Post. You can purchase medium and large size bottles at all drug stores.—Adv.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 1/4 oz. of glycerine. Apply to the hair twice a week until it becomes the desired shade. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. It will gradually darken streaked, faded gray hair, and will make harsh hair soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.—Adv.

THE REASON WHY

When I start out with a grouchy pout
To advertise I'm blue;
I never feel my friend's appeal,
As usual kind and true.
I may try to claim they're to blame;
In my heart the truth is known—
That no joy I find is return in kind
For a fault that's all my own.

BEFORE THE RAILROAD COMMISSION OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA

In the matter of the Application of SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA Edison Company, a Corporation, for an Order Establishing just and reasonable rates for the sale of electricity.—Application No. 5394.

Notice of Hearing

Notice is hereby given that the Railroad Commission of the State of California has set a hearing in the above entitled matter before Commission Edgerton on Thursday, March 25, 1920, at 10:00 a. m., in Room 205, Union League Building, Los Angeles, California, at which time and place all interested parties may appear and be heard.

By order of the Railroad Commission.
Dated at San Francisco, California, this 4th day of March, 1920.

W. R. WILLIAMS,
Secretary Railroad Commission of the State of California.

NOTICE OF SALE OF WATERWORKS IMPROVEMENT BONDS, AND STREET WORK BONDS, OF THE CITY OF SIERRA MADRE, CALIFORNIA.

Sealed proposals will be received by the City Clerk of the City of Sierra Madre, California, until 7:30 o'clock p. m. of Thursday, April 1st, 1920, to purchase certain Municipal

Bonds of said City of Sierra Madre, to-wit:

First: Waterworks Improvement Bonds in the amount of Sixty Thousand ($60,000.00) Dollars. Said Bonds are forty-year serials and are eighty in number, forty of said Bonds in the denomination of One Thousand ($1,000.00) Dollars each, and forty of said Bonds in the denomination of Five Hundred ($500.00) Dollars each, and the principal and interest thereon are payable in lawful money of the United States. They are dated March 1st, 1920, and bear interest at the rate of five and one-half per cent per annum, payable semi-annually on the 1st day of September and the 1st day of March each year.

One of said Bonds of the denomination of One Thousand ($1,000.00) Dollars and one of said Bonds of the denomination of Five Hundred ($500.00) Dollars are due and payable on the 1st day of March, 1921, and one of said Bonds of the denomination of One Thousand ($1,000.00) Dollars and one of said Bonds of the denomination of Five Hundred ($500.00) Dollars on the same day and date of each and every year thereafter, at the City Treasury of said City of Sierra Madre, together with the interest on all sums unpaid at such date.

Second: Street Work Bonds of said City of Sierra Madre in the amount of Ten Thousand ($10,000.00) Dollars. Said Bonds are ten in number and each of said Bonds is in the denomination of One Thousand ($1,000.00) Dollars, and the principal and interest thereon are payable in lawful money of the United States. They are dated March 1st, 1920, and bear interest at the rate of five and one-half per cent per annum, payable semi-annually on the 1st day of September and the 1st day of March of each year.

One of said bonds is due and payable on the 1st day of March, 1921, and one of said Bonds on the same day and date of each and every year thereafter, at the City Treasury of said City of Sierra Madre, together with the interest on all sums unpaid at such date.

All of said Bonds are issued under the authority of the act of the Legislature of the State of California, entitled "An Act authorizing the incurring of indebtedness by cities, towns and municipal corporations for municipal improvements, and regulating the acquisition, construction, or completion thereof," which became a law February 25th, 1901, and the amendments thereto, and in accordance with the provisions of law and the ordinances of said City.

No proposals for said Bonds will be entertained at less than their face value together with the accrued interest to the date of their delivery, and all bids or proposals submitted will be construed by the Board of Trustees of said City to mean par and accrued interest to the date of delivery of said Bonds in addition to the premium offered, whether the bids or proposals set forth the same explicitly or not.

The said bonds will be ready for delivery on or about April 15th, 1920, and will be delivered at the City Treasurer's office, in the City of Sierra Madre, California, or at any designated place upon the payment by the purchaser of all expenses incurred by the delivery of the bonds and transfer of the money necessary to make delivery and payment equivalent to a transaction at the office of the City Treasurer in the said City of Sierra Madre.

All bids or proposals providing for delivery at any place other than the City of Sierra Madre, California, will be construed by the Board of Trustees to mean the price bid in addition to the expenses of delivery, whether the bid or proposal sets forth the same explicitly or not.

Separate proposals or bids may be submitted for said Waterworks Improvement Bonds and for said Street Work Bonds. With each proposal or bid for said Waterworks Improvement Bonds must be submitted a certified check or cashier's check drawn upon some bank in the State of California, payable to the order of the City Treasurer of the City of Sierra Madre for the sum of Seven Hundred and Fifty ($750.00) Dollars; and with each proposal or bid for said Street Work Bonds must be submitted a certified check or cashier's check drawn upon some bank in the State of California, payable to the order of the City Treasurer of the City of Sierra Madre, for the sum of Two Hundred and Fifty ($250.00) Dollars as a guarantee that the bidder will purchase and pay for said bonds in accordance with his proposal in the event the bid is accepted.

The Board of Trustees of said City reserves the right to reject any and all bids or proposals.

By order of the Board of Trustees of the City of Sierra Madre, made at a regular meeting of said Board on March 11th, 1920.

E. F. BALLOU,
City Clerk of the City of Sierra Madre, California.

LOCAL ITEMS

Mrs. Charles S. Seeley of Kingman, Arizona, is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Seeley.

F. O. Nichols is driving a new touring car of the popular brand sold by the Sierra Madre garage.

The nice cold rain that fell Tuesday was apparently the last kick of winter, or it was pushed from the lap of spring.

The machinery in Olsen's shoe shop has all been replaced with modern up-to-date machinery equal to that in any metropolitan shop.

Mrs. F. W. Nuetzel has accepted a position with the Southern California Music company, and is selling musical instruments on commission.

Miss Ida M. Hageman of Pittsburg, Pa., now visiting in Pasadena, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Mark E. Cox of North Hermosa avenue.

E. P. Rhodes is in Long Beach this week, where he is establishing a branch office of the Universal Fertilizer company in which firm he is interested.

Miss Lola Seabee left Thursday for Seattle to visit relatives in that city. Before returning she will spend some time in Montana. She expects to be gone about four months.

The Red Cross rummage shop and Woman's exchange will be opened again on Saturday morning, March 27, at 11 o'clock. The usual line of good things are solicited.

Dr. G. Nielsens, of Los Angeles, Prof. Lloyd Allen of Whittier and Miss Delores Christy of Sierra Madre were luncheon guests on Monday of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Young.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Shoup and daughter, Martha, of Hamilton, Missouri, and Mrs. Eugene Hammit of Marysville, Kansas, are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. Hare.

Mrs. John Berryman Land, a January bride, is spending a fortnight with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Ferris. Her sister, Miss Elizabeth Blossom Ferris, from Berkeley, joined them for last week-end.

Mrs. Charles E. Hyde and Miss Lillian Harper were guests on Sunday of Miss Lydia Webster and Mrs. E. H. Vannier. They are old time friends from New York and have not seen each other for thirty years, so the occasion was a happy reunion.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Smith, who came for a two weeks' visit with their daughter, Mrs. J. F. Whiting, are reluctantly returning to their home at Mt. Carmel, Ill., after a six weeks' stay. They are so pleased with Sierra Madre that they plan to return later and make their permanent home.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Henderson entertained a number of friends last Tuesday evening. Five hundred was played and later a buffet supper was served. Wild flowers were used in decorating the rooms. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Udell, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Ireland, Misses Yerde Appleby, Helen Williams and Sutter and Mr. Harry Dewing.

THANK YOU, PACIFIC ELECTRIC

Sierra Madre has lost one of its sight-seeing curios, the torn up street along the Pacific Electric tracks, which has been repaired by the accommodating railway company. Now who will dare say that a corporation has no soul?

DELIGHTFUL DANCE

In honor of Captain Zimmerman, Mrs. C. H. Merkle of Arlington avenue, Los Angeles, recently entertained with a delightful dance at the Venice pavilion. There were twenty-two guests.

Those present from Sierra Madre were Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Stamp, Mr. and Mrs. Smith Wright Loggins and Mrs. Anna W. Harris.

HER HEALTH WAS BENEFITED

Having suffered many years from Catarrhal affections and its attending constipation, after the use of one jar of Harper's Pure Red Clover Extract, one month's treatment, I feel that I have received such marvelous benefit, I want to tell ALL who feel the need of a blood builder and purifier. Also, those who would not use a medicine can find Harper's Red Clover a God-given food and drink. Used in place of coffee or tea be sure to use plenty of it reduced to a pleasant drink by dissolving in hot water, sugar and cream if you like. You'll bless the day you found it at Hartman's.

Mrs. E. A. Ridsdale, 197 Auburn Ave., Sierra Madre. (adv.)

CITY CANDIDATES

The deep silence that pervades the local political atmosphere is even more so this week. The office is seeking the man and the man is busy sidestepping.

Trustees Camp, Essick and Alley are candidates for re-election, as is Pegler and Ballou for treasurer and clerk, respectively, and Earl Topping is a candidate for trustee, as mentioned last week.

The only new candidate this week is Louis Dietz, who, we are informed, has his petition out as candidate for the office of city clerk. Mr. Dietz is an old resident here and has not only served the people as mayor but has always taken an active part in civic affairs. He is thoroughly competent to fill the office, as is also the present incumbent.

For purely personal reasons The News will not "take sides" in this contest, although (because) the attitude of the editor is well known on the street. The writer prefers a city clerk who will not send all of the city printing to Los Angeles—and we do not care what his name is, if he is competent.

APPLICATION TO STATE RAILROAD COMMISSION

"The State Railroad commission has set Thursday, March 25, for a public hearing in its offices in the Union League building, Los Angeles, upon the application of the Southern California Edison company for an emergency rate increase," said District Attorney Fred Schwartz to a representative of the News today.

Regarding the causes which make it necessary for his company to ask for this relief, District Agent Schwartz explained that it is going to cost the Southern California Edison company approximately two million dollars above the normal cost of production to generate by steam the two hundred million kilowatt hours of electrical energy necessary to meet the extraordinary conditions caused by the water shortage.

Following three years of sub-normal precipitation, along with the years of war embargo on materials which are necessary for constructing power plants; and strikes in the steel industry in the East and in San Francisco, depriving the delivery of material required for work that is under way, the Southern California Edison company, during the coming summer season must face the proposition of increasing generation by the use of steam plants that it owns or can secure, at greatly advanced prices for oil, which will have to be bought in the open market.

During previous water shortages the company has been able to generate its auxiliary steam load by using its modern and efficient steam turbines which generate electricity at the smallest expenditure for oil. This year it will have to use additional plants of types which are older and less efficient, and which will use more oil in proportion to the amount of energy generated.

"The company," said Mr. Schwartz, "is, figuratively speaking, breaking its back to provide the additional two hundred million kilowatt hours of power necessary to meet the extraordinary demands which have been thrust upon it by the enormous agricultural and industrial development and to care for the requirements of existing consumers."

"Our officials," said District Agent Schwartz, "have used due diligence in attempting to meet all demands and had well worked out plans for the development of our hydro-electric properties, which under ordinary conditions would have been completed in time to have carried the load. The water shortage has created an emergency condition which no amount of forethought or preparation could have forestalled. The Railroad Commission has been asked to take into consideration all the facts in order to make it possible to give the service necessary to enable ranchers to keep their crops growing and manufacturers to give continuous work to their employees, and at the same time place the company in a position where it can obtain the needed funds in order to continue its development work and bring in new and additional power plants in 1921."

THAT NEW ADOBE HOUSE

The "prize contest" house of adobe construction on East Laurel is receiving a lot of metropolitan newspaper notoriety and incidentally Sierra Madre is getting good free advertising thereby. The adobe brick are being made and actual construction will soon commence.

For Motherhood A Woman Testifies

Omak, Wash.—"In the five years we have been married we have had three children and lost two of them. I doctored with two of our local doctors and they told me I had kidney trouble. I began taking Dr. Pierce's medicines, first having written to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, in Buffalo, N. Y., telling exactly how I was and had been, what I had done, and asked what I should do. They told me to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription which is a woman's medicine, the Golden Medical Discovery which is a tonic; and the Anuric Tablets for the kidneys. I took all of these medicines and today I have a strong, healthy baby girl, also I am better than I ever was before.

"I can never thank Dr. Pierce enough for his kindness in giving me advice all during expectancy and in analyzing the samples, free of charge, that I sent to him.

"I would be glad to answer any questions that I can in regard to what Dr. Pierce's wonderful medicines did for me."—MRS. H. D. SIMPSON.

Stockton, Cal.—"I had feminine trouble, displacement, inflammation, terrible headaches, terrible backache and a catarrhal condition. I also had indigestion very badly. I had tried everything but nothing seemed to help me until I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It cured me—I got well and strong. I took three bottles."—MRS. C. BOUDON, 9 E. South St.

When a woman complains of backache, dizziness or pain—when everything looks black before her eyes—a dragging feeling, or bearing-down, with nervousness, she should turn to this "temperance" herbal tonic, known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It can be obtained in almost every drug store in the land and the ingredients are printed in plain English on the wrapper. Put up in tablets or liquid. Dr. Pierce, of Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., will send a trial size for 10 cents.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

WITTY WITCH'S SONGS.

"I want to tell you," said Daddy, "about the songs that Witty Witch sang at Peter Gnome's party the other day. He gave a party where he told a story he had made up himself, but he said he had merely made up the way the words should be written. He hadn't made up the facts or things which happened, which of course made the greater part of the story."

"Do tell us about Witty Witch's songs," said Nancy.

"Yes," said Nick, "I'd like to hear them, too."

"I'll tell them to you," said Daddy, "for I know that Witty Witch would like me to. She likes all children who like her. She doesn't like to think that children think she's an awful old thing who would chase them with a broom, for such a thing she would never do."

"She says she was riding on a broom once and someone took her photograph and ever since then it has been so hard for her to tell people and make them understand that that broom was for sweeping or for taking rides upon as she did quite often, but it was not for beating children as someone said who didn't know anything about her, really. There are no bad witches these days."

"For that reason, as you know, Witty Witch hates gossip as much as anyone, if not more. For she knows the harm it can do, what wrong stories go about and how folks believe them if they don't watch out and find out the truth for themselves."

"Well, after Peter Gnome's supper was over and they had all had a delicious meal old Witty Witch took out a banjo which she had brought along with her and she sang this song first of all.

Oh, I am a witch, a jolly old witch, Who can ride o'er the clouds or can jump o'er a ditch.

But I'm not a wild thing, no, no, indeed! So what I tell you pray to take heed. I love boys and girls and anials, too, I love the whole world—indeed I do. So please don't say the old witch is cranky.

When she rides on her broomstick horse so lanky.

"She sang this song several times and then she sang many more. She sang of the secrets which are in coals of fire, of the games played back in fireplaces among the sparks and the crackling wood.

"Took Out a Banjo."

"She sang funny songs because as she was so witty and had been named Witty Witch she could always think of a funny song to sing."

"And she sang the rules of many games so they all could play them afterwards."

"In verse she sang how to play London Bridge and Musical Chairs and Bumps and Puss in the Corner, and forfeits, and Hunt the Slipper, and many other games."

"So that later on at the next party they could play all these games, or at least some of them, for Peter Gnome had said some of the members of the Every-Day-Is-Nice Club had forgotten some of the rules of a few games."

"Before it was time for them to go home and as the next to the last song, she chose this one—an old favorite of hers.

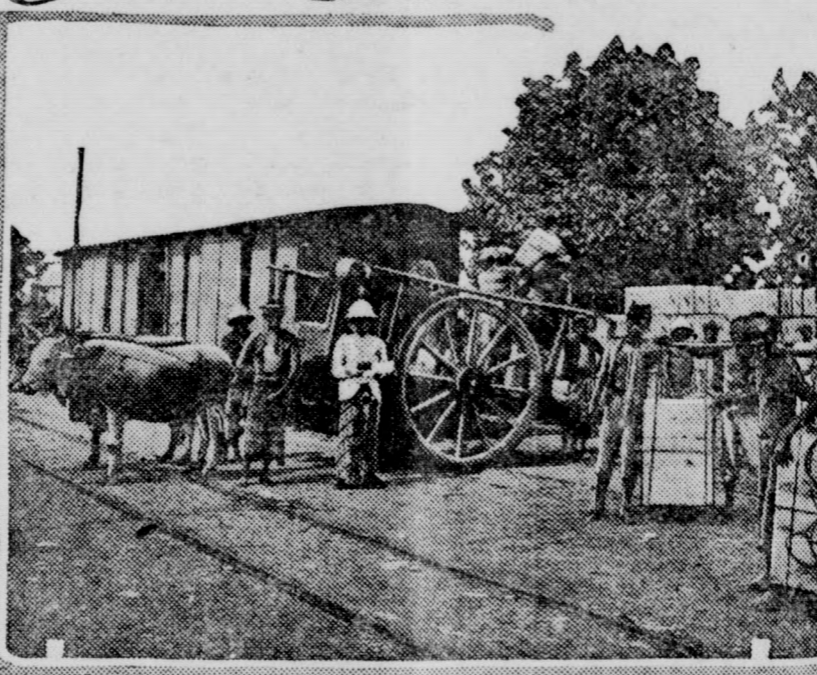

Listen here, listen here, And be of good cheer, For you know there's such fun Under dear Mr. Sun, And yet when it rains All those who have brains Know there's fun to be had, Though the weather be bad, There are games for all weather For us to play together. There are nice things to do, So never feel blue, For the world is so fine, One should never, never pine. And as they were getting ready to go home she sang:

Dear friends, so good and bright, Let me sing my good-night, And love me, my dears, Right through the years.

When Your Eyes Wander.

Look at the person with whom you are talking. The best conversationalist cannot do himself justice with one whose eyes wander. Do not stare at the one who is speaking, do not examine him critically, as if you had just noticed something decidedly out of the way in his personal appearance, but be sure that when his eyes turn in your direction, they shall meet yours. You are guilty of something closely related to discourtesy when your eyes wander—Girls' Companion.

Attractions of Java

Unloading Goods at Soerabaya.

IT IS very easy to enter Java, says a writer in the New York Sun. Tourists are welcomed cordially and the customs officials are efficient about it, so that the first impression of Java is pleasant. Some say that it is just as easy to get out of as into Java, hinting that the Dutch resent misbehavior and unfair criticism and that undesirable visitors are sometimes requested to leave forthwith.

Most visitors land at Tandjong Priok, the harbor for Batavia, about seven miles from the city. This harbor was built between 1877 and 1886, and was considered one of the finest colonial harbors in the world until some of the British harbors excelled, and now the Dutch are re-establishing their claim for this distinction with the harbor construction at Soerabaya. Despite the fact that there are two harbors, outer and inner, the commerce of Batavia has really outgrown the facilities offered by the present harbor works.

The outer harbor has a depth of 26 feet, and is protected by two breakwaters, each 6,000 feet in length. The inner harbor is some 3,500 feet long and over 500 feet wide, with quays on each side. The east quay has coaling sheds. The piers are of concrete construction, with spur tracks from the railway. The cost of this harbor was over $10,500,000.

Protected From Crocodiles.

About a quarter of an hour's drive from Tandjong, in one of those funny antiquated hacks drawn by ponies, is "Petit Trouville," where sea bathing may be enjoyed. The bathing pool is inclosed to keep out crocodiles and is probably perfectly safe, but I have seen fences on land give way before a rushing bull and a convenient tree provided the protection which the fence failed to give. So I refrained from enjoying the security of the fenced-in pool. A crocodile is fully as powerful and as fast as an infuriated bull, and he is just as immune to reason. The Dutch have not provided convenient trees as an extra safeguard, but most of them know the crocodiles by name and do not seem afraid of them. It is different with strangers.

The drive from Tandjong Priok to Batavia is a fitting prelude to a tour of Java. In this short drive, seven miles or so, is found the happy combination of good roads, an unsurpassed luxuriance of tropical vegetation and a kaleidoscopic whirligig of peoples, native and foreign, dressed in their own peculiar manners and going about their business in their individual ways.

All the way to Batavia the road runs along the canal, and along the canal are rice fields, coconut groves, native settlements and a new surprise at every turn of the way. Tall coconut palms reach out over the canal from the great groves along the banks. Nestled among them are the picturesque native houses with their bamboo woven sides and thatched roofs; overhead is the turquoise blue sky so peculiar to the tropics, and to intensify its blueness are the cotton clouds as motionless as the palms.

The Goat an Institution.

All this beauty is shown both above and below, for there in the canal is the reflection of the whole scene, even to the cattle, the sleek humped kind, the buffalo and the goats. We must not forget the goats. They are as inevitable as they are innumerable. Goats are to Java what dogs are to America. They run at will—are everybody's friend.

If there is a fight or a fire, they scamper about on the edge of the crowd. If a fire blows out, there they are, eagerly awaiting any scraps of rubber or cloth which may be thrown away. They are the comedians of metropolitan Java. In the provinces there the monkeys are as funny as at the zoo.

Well, this finds us in Java—and what of this land to which we have come? Was it Stubbs who said something to the effect that we must know what the past was if we are to appreciate the present? Java contains so many relics of the past that even a drive through Batavia indicates past centuries.

For hundreds of years before Columbus discovered America, Hindu influence was dominant in Java, and then the bolsheviki came over from Arabia and messed things up. This was in 1477.

The Portuguese peeked in at one or two of the ports in 1511 and said: "Sh-h-h! Quiet now, fellows. We won't do a thing to this place." But they did.

How Spoils Were Divided.

From then until 1529, it was nip and tuck between the Spanish and the Portuguese as to who could rob the natives the more efficiently. The contest ended in a draw and a treaty gave rights of robbery in the Indies to the Portuguese and similar rights in the Philippines to the Spanish.

The Spanish got the best of the bargain, because they were not disturbed until 1598, while the poor Portuguese were kicked out of their territory by the Dutch in 1596, before they had half time to skin the natives.

Then the Dutch took over the noble work and drew up trading treaties for presentation to the natives. To all questions raised by the party of the second part one reply was used—"sign here." When the natives showed a reluctance the blunderbuss or long sword made the fairness of the treaty perfectly clear, as was customary among the conquerors of those early days.

Dutch Rule Now Kindly.

From then until 1895 Holland and England fought like country cousins over possession of the islands, and they finally whacked up and called quits. England took parts of Africa, all of Ceylon and spots along the China coast, but left the Indies to Holland, after taking a slice off Borneo and an end off New Guinea.

So we find the Dutch in possession of Java and through their courtesy we visit the island. Here we are in Batavia, a community of many peoples enjoying peace and prosperity under the kindly Dutch rule.

The first thing to find is a hotel. The finding impresses us with the individuality of the country.

On three sides of a square is a two-story building. Each room has a spacious veranda in front, facing the walkway which runs along the entire length of the hotel. On the veranda is a table and a big chair. If the chair had wheels and a top it would look like one of those victorias so much used by old ladies and small-town doctors, when the latter drove horses, charged a dollar for house visits, 50 cents for office calls and furnished the pills as a sort of premium.

Instead of the wheels and the top the chair has extension arms about four feet long, which swing out to provide an elevated footrest. The higher the temperature the more willing you are to sprawl as per the possibilities. It is on the veranda that guests are received and stroopen and soda is served. Great life.

Sun Provides Hot Showers.

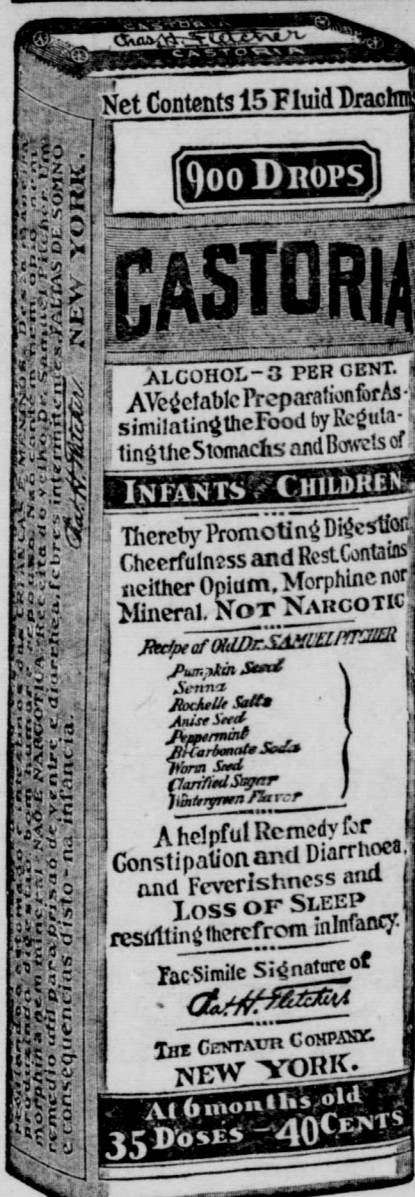

At the back of the veranda is the bedroom—for coolness a rugless, pictureless, cheerless place, with a skinny iron bed, covered by a canopy of net, sort of fortification against the mosquitoes. Notice, I say "sort of."

In every bed is a Dutch wife. Oh, it's quite proper! This lady thing is merely an elongated pillow, hard and round, upon which to rest one's knee. This position is cooler for sleeping than to rest all on a level.

Out back of the rooms is another walkway used by the boys. Boys in Java may be anywhere from sixteen to sixty as to age, but just so long as they are servants, they're boys.

"Boy!" is the "call of the East." Somewhere along this walkway is the bathroom, one of the most popular recreation rooms in the hotel. The water is in a pen built up in one corner. On the floor are duck boards. Somewhere around is a tin or wooden bucket. The bath is taken by dipping water from the pen and pouring it where most desired. Very satisfying and refreshing.

Some hotels boast shower baths, supplied from a tank on the roof. A shower in the early morning is all right, but usually by midday and certainly by night, the sun has made the water too hot for comfort.

Clever. "Is that young man who calls on you very clever?" "I should say he is. Why he can pick up a new dance step in no time."

The Exception.

"An army is different in one respect from any other organization." "What is that?" "Nobody wants it in running order."

YOUR CATARRH MAY LEAD TO CONSUMPTION

Dangerous to Use Temporary Relief for Only Temporary Relief.

There is a more serious stage of Catarrh than the annoyance caused by the stopped-up air passages, and other distasteful features. The real danger comes from the tendency of the disease to continue its course downward until the lungs become affected, and then dreaded consumption is on your path. Your own experience has taught you that the disease cannot be cured by sprays, inhalers, atomizers, jellies and other local applications.

S. S. S. has proven a most satisfactory remedy for Catarrh because it goes direct to its source. Get a bottle today, begin the only logical treatment that gives real results. For free medical advice write Medical Director, 47 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

Acid-Stomach

Makes 9 Out of 10

People Suffer

Doctors declare that more than 70 non-organic diseases can be traced to Acid-Stomach. Starting with indigestion, heartburn, belching, food-repeating, bloating, gassy stomach, the entire system eventually becomes affected, every vital organ suffering in some degree or other. You see these victims of Acid-Stomach everywhere—people who are subject to nervousness, headache, insomnia, biliousness—people who suffer from rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica and aches and pains all over the body. It is safe to say that about 9 people out of 10 suffer to some extent from Acid-Stomach.

If you suffer from stomach trouble, or even if you do not feel any stomach distress, yet are weak and ailing, feel tired and dragged out, lack "pep" and enthusiasm and know that something is wrong although you cannot locate the exact cause of your trouble—you naturally want to get back your grip on health as quickly as possible. The KITCHEN CABINET

You do surely bar the door upon your own liberty if you deny your griefs to your friends.—Shakespeare.

MEATS, NOT COMMON.

The following dishes are all easy to prepare and common in most markets:

Haricot of Ox-tails.—Cut three ox-tails in four-inch pieces; add one-half cupful of carrot, the same of minced onion and four table-spoonfuls of sweet fat. Cook ten minutes, add four table-spoonfuls of flour and four cupfuls of stock or water. Cook one hour; season with salt and pepper. Serve the vegetables in the center and ox-tails around the edge; garnish with potato balls and parsley.

Tripe Ragout.—Wash one pound of tripe and cut in two-inch strips for serving. Sauté the tripe in two table-spoonfuls of butter or butter substitute; after adding two table-spoonfuls of chopped onion cook ten minutes; add one cupful each of tomato and celery, the latter cut in bits, and simmer until all is tender. Serve garnished with toast points.

Lyonnaise Tripe.—Cook two table-spoonfuls of onion in two table-spoonfuls of butter. Add two cupfuls of cooked tripe, cut in strips; cook ten minutes. Serve on buttered toast; sprinkle with salt and pepper, dot with bits of butter and garnish with finely-chopped parsley.

Stuffed Calves Heart.—Wash the heart and remove the tough portions; fill with stuffing used for chicken, sprinkle with salt and pepper, dredge with flour and place on a rack in a hot oven to roast for two hours. Baste while roasting with beef stock, pork fat, hot water or butter.

In men who men condemn as ill I find so much of goodness still; In men whom men pronounce divine I find so much of sin and blot, I hesitate to draw the line Where God has not.

FOR CHOCOLATE LOVERS.

Chocolate is almost universally liked and is served in countless ways. The following are neither new nor unusual, but may be suggestive or helpful:

Chestnuts With Chocolate Cream.—Boil one quart of large chestnuts; remove shells and press through a sieve or potato ricer; add four table-spoonfuls of powdered sugar, one-half teaspoonful of salt, four table-spoonfuls of cream and three table-spoonfuls of marshmallow syrup. Whip one cupful of heavy cream; add two table-spoonfuls of marshmallow, three table-spoonfuls of powdered sugar and four table-spoonfuls of melted chocolate. Fill molds with the blended mixture; chill and serve with a garnish of chopped nuts.

Cocoa Cream.—Mix half a cupful of cocoa, half a cupful of sugar and the yolks of two eggs, beaten; add two cupfuls of cream and one-quarter of an inch of stick cinnamon; cook until thick in a double boiler. Add two table-spoonfuls of gelatin, softened in one-quarter cupful of cold water, and stir until dissolved over hot water. Add one-quarter teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of vanilla and one cupful of heavy cream, beaten thick. Cool the first mixture before adding the cream. Mold and chill; serve with cream.

Chocolate Junket.—Melt one ounce of chocolate; add three table-spoonfuls of boiling water. Crush one junket tablet and dissolve in one table-spoonful of water. Warm one quart of milk until lukewarm; add one-quarter cupful of sugar and a teaspoonful of vanilla and the dissolved tablet with the melted chocolate. Mix well, pour into sherbet cups and let them stand in a warm room until the junket is set. Serve with whipped cream.

Cocoa Tutti-Frutti Cream.—Use the recipe for cocoa cream, adding one-half cupful of macaroons, which have been dried and pounded, one cupful of candied cherries cut in small pieces, one-half dozen marshmallows cut in bits and one-half dozen raisins, one table-spoonful each of citron and orange peel, chopped fine; add the last just before putting into the molds.

Chocolate Sauce.—Cook the following ingredients in a double boiler: One cupful of milk, two egg yolks, one-quarter cupful of sugar, a pinch of salt, one teaspoonful of butter, two ounces of chocolate or one-quarter cupful of cocoa. Cook until the mixture coats the spoon. Serve hot on ice cream.

An inspiration is a joy forever; to have many of these is to be spiritually rich.—Stevenson.

STEAMED PUDDINGS.

This is a collection of reliable recipes of various puddings which are enjoyed during the cold weather.

Suet Pudding.—Take one cupful of finely chopped suet, one cupful of molasses and one cupful of sour milk, two eggs beaten light, three and one-half cupfuls of flour, salt, spice to taste, one cupful of fruit, raisins, currants and citron mixed, or any one fruit. Add one teaspoonful of soda to the sour milk and steam in a buttered mold two hours. Serve with egg sauce.

Beat one egg very light, add one cupful of sugar, and pour over the egg and sugar half a cupful of boiling hot milk. Flavor to taste and serve at once.

Graham Pudding.—Take one-half cupful of molasses, one-fourth cupful of sweet fat, one beaten egg, one-half cupful of sour milk, one-half teaspoonful of soda, a little salt, one and one-half cupfuls of graham flour, one cupful of raisins, and spices to taste. Steam four hours.

Prune Pudding.—Take one pound of prunes soaked over night and pitted, half cupful of butter substitute, one pint of coarse bread crumbs, one cupful of sugar, one-fourth cupful of molasses, three beaten eggs, half a teaspoonful of soda dissolved in one table-spoonful of milk, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, half a teaspoonful of cloves. Steam three hours.

Wedding Pudding.—Take one cupful of fat salt pork chopped fine, one cupful of chopped raisins, two cupfuls of sugar, three and one-half cupfuls of flour, two cupfuls of milk, one teaspoonful of soda, one of cloves and one of cinnamon; mix all the dry ingredients except the soda, which is dissolved in the milk, then add milk and beat well. Steam four hours. Serve with a rich fruit sauce.

Bread Crumb Pudding.—Take two and one-half cupfuls of bread crumbs, one cupful of sour milk, half-cupful of shortening, one egg, one teaspoonful of soda, one cupful of raisins, one cupful of any kind of preserves, one cupful of sugar, cinnamon and nutmeg to taste. Steam two hours. Serve with any desired sauce.

"Wise charity will decrease, unwise increase the cost of living. The latter is simply another tax, lightly imposed, wastefully spent. Also, when one helps an underserving object he is keeping men and women out of useful industry where they are needed to make and sell goods. Necessary and well-managed charities will demobilize every worker that can possibly be spared to production."

SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS.

Those who have a well-stocked cellar will find a vegetable soup most appetizing occasionally.

Julienne Soup.—Into three quarts of water put one-half cupful each of diced carrots, turnips, finely chopped onion and celery, one bay leaf and one table-spoonful of minced parsley. Bring to the boiling point, then add two table-spoonfuls of Worcestershire sauce, two table-spoonfuls of beef extract, and one teaspoonful of salt. Simmer one-half hour, strain and serve. Three quarts of good soup stock may be used in place of the beef extract and water.

Hot String Bean Salad.—Drain a can of beans and heat the liquor boiling hot; reduce it to a quarter of a cupful. Fry two slices of bacon until crisp, pour the hot fat with the liquor over the beans. Add the chopped bacon, and season highly with salt and a few dashes of cayenne. A bit of onion juice or a fried onion may be added for flavor, if liked.

Good Boiled Dressing.—Take two table-spoonfuls of flour, one table-spoonful of sugar, one teaspoonful of salt, a half teaspoonful of mustard, a few dashes of cayenne, and when well blended add a cupful of cold water, two eggs and one-quarter cupful of strong vinegar. Cook until smooth and thick. When ready to use add four table-spoonfuls of the dressing to half a cupful of whipped cream. This dressing, well covered, will keep for weeks in a cool place.

Sport Togs are of London Kind

At this time of the year we begin to buy our sport clothes, not only for wear in the South, but also for the country this summer. This is a part of our wardrobe which can be attended to early in the season, as styles in sport clothes are fairly well crystallized now, writes a prominent fashion correspondent.

Our American importers have turned to London for their models this spring, because the English designers and manufacturers are offering an unusually smart collection. Not since pre-war days have we seen such striking English sport clothes, although before the war England was looked to for the best in this line. During the war years such new things as we had in sport togs came from the Paris market, and consequently there was considerable change in this type of dress. Directly the war was over, as well as during it, our designers got camel's-hair cloth, will feature in the coming suits. A new idea in the stockinette suits is the addition of corduroy collars and cuffs.

Fabric Hats for Many Uses.

With the turning of our thoughts toward spring and summer clothes there comes the question of hats for this season; what will they be like? Already we have a very good idea of what will be offered, but what will be accepted is another matter. The indications are that the fabric hat will not only be popular for street wear, but will be equally in demand for sports.

A new material used for hats is crepe de chine, which is nothing more than a highly-glazed voile. For the spring it will be combined with straw. Later, it will be used for a more summery type of hat. As it comes in dark as well as light colors it will serve for both town and country wear.

Goat hair, as a trimming for straw hats, is a fashion of French origin. It has, upon first consideration, the appearance of a freaky fashion, but it is actually very pretty. On one Paris model, which is a straight leg-horn shape, the fur, which has its edges tipped with black, is laid about the brim to obtain an unusually pleasing effect. Haircloth hats are not new—we had many of them last spring. This year, however, haircloth is combined with satin to make it softer and infinitely more becoming.

The clothes prepared for those going South are noteworthy for the practical element that has been combined with the daintiness that is characteristic of summer apparel. There are no extreme effects; all the dresses are of designs suitable to the well-dressed woman's summer wardrobe. Sport clothes show some change of design and considerable change in color, for they are much brighter than those of past seasons. One is impressed with the fact that they are not distinctly mid-season clothes, but designed for summer.

The exodus to Southern resorts always sees a great many crepe de chine dresses brought out, but this year they have a new significance, for they are not only in the lighter colors but in dark shades for street wear. This no doubt, is due to the fact that Paris has featured crepe de chine frocks very largely during the late winter and spring. Particularly pretty are those of brown. We do not, as a rule, think of brown as a spring color, but this season will see a great deal of it not only in these lighter silk fabrics but in brocades from which are fashioned more formal frocks. One is amazed at the beauty of these new brown tones; they are a real achievement in dyes.

Brown crepe de chine is used to develop an interesting frock. It has ever so many new and interesting features apart from the coloring of its fabric, which is light in tone—almost on a beige shade. It is griddled with a deep, rich brown velvet ribbon, the ends being allowed to stand straight out.

The dress is of chemise type, drawn in tightly at the waist by the dark-brown belt. A few inches below the waistline are set two knife-plaited tunics, one on either side. Another youthful idea is carried out in the use of a white organdie and net guimpe, like the guimpe of a little girl's frock. It shows above the neckline of the silk dress, which is gathered, and its little undersleeves peek from beneath very short sleeves of silk. Attached to the guimpe is a harem collar of organdie and net. This collar may be considered by some as an extreme feature, and for that reason it is made so that it may be easily detached.

Dots That Blend With White

Dotted crepe de chine also plays a prominent part in our new clothes. While a frock made entirely of this material would be monotonous, it is most effective when combined with plain fabrics. It is frequently used in combination with plain white voile.

This summer's organdies are in beautiful shades; browns as well as bright coral being among them. Embroidering organdie with worsted is a new idea in trimming. Loosely-twisted yarn is selected and the stitch-worked in such a way as to give the appearance of the wool being split. Skirts of organdie frocks are entirely covered with this wool embroidery.

A bright coral organdie dress has the waist made in the form of a tiny shawl, to which, at either side of the front, buttons a white lingerie vest, extending below the waistline in apron effect. This is an elaborate vest, being completely covered with hand embroidery and drawnwork. It is the only trimming on the frock other than a tiny sash of the material. This, instead of being made double, as such sashes usually are, is of a single piece of the organdie, bound on either side with a bias piece of the fabric. A strip of material treated in the same way is used for little bows and tied about the sleeves, which are so short that they are little more than shoulder caps.

Choose Satin or Velvet.

"When in doubt choose satin or velvet," is pretty safe advice for the woman who is selecting a frock that will be really serviceable and yet sufficiently dressy for the average informal afternoon social function. Wool fabric frocks, no matter how well made nor how costly, never seem really dressy. A satin or velvet dress unquestionably is.

Always Handwork.

Even the plainest and most practical of children's dresses is not allowed to go without its bit of handwork, which may take the form of a very little bit of embroidery, or else an elaborate trimming.

BOY SCOUTS

(Conducted by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.)

MOTHER'S VIEW OF SCOUTING

Here is what the mother of a Chicago scout told his scoutmaster over the telephone one day:

"Mr. Scoutmaster, I am very much disappointed in the scout organization. I thought my boy would be changed completely after he joined the scouts. I thought he would attend to his chores cheerfully and be more thoughtful of his mother."

The scoutmaster at the next troop meeting gave a talk to his boys concerning home duties, and noticed that the boy in question did not seem to pay much attention to him, if he heard what was said.

"I heard you all right," said the scout. "But if I should help at home the other fellows will find it out and call me sissie."

"Will the other fellows stand by you when you need a friend? Is it not your mother that you go to for a little change from the movies, and when you want a favor granted? Why not return some of these by helping her whenever you can? If you cannot stand a little chaff from the boys you are not a brave scout, are you?"

The lad went away, and not long thereafter the mother again telephoned the scoutmaster and said:

"I do not know what you said or how you accomplished it, but my boy is completely changed since I spoke to you last. I have never had to talk to him a second time about his work and he is most courteous and thoughtful of me."

HEADQUARTERS TROOPS HIKE.

How would you like to start a hike with an envelope containing sealed orders, knowing that all the rest of your troop were going to do the same thing? Each envelope gave instructions to follow a route according to photographs of landmarks, supplemented by compass directions, and each scout would thereby come to the spot where the troop was to have its campfire.

It was in this way that the treasure hunt of Troop No. 413 of the national headquarters office began, and at the end of the trail there were treasures consisting of kits for each of the successful scouts. A number of these found within the kits their badges for advanced classifications which they had earned within the month.

Accompanying this troop was a party of scout officials from national headquarters. Roast chicken and pork chops, campfire songs and stories, and a talk by Scout Executive Lawrence Harris of Hammond, Ind., ended the seven-mile hike.

Troop 413 spends each week-end in its tents somewhere about New York city, and will always welcome boy scout visitors provided only that they have their own equipment.

SONG OF THE ROVER PATROL.

Swing your pack, swing your pack, Rover Patrol.

Far down the mystery, somewhere's a goal.

Far down the luring road into the haze, Into the blue of the long Far-Aways.

Rover scout, boy scout, quest in your soul.

Shoulder your pack for the unknown goal.

Nightfall and solitude, Rover Patrol; Cookfire and campfire and brown blanket roll.

Blanket and starlight and wind in the tree.

Night, wind and stars are no freer than we.

Crackle and freelight and red-glowing coal;

Trails into slumberland, luring the soul.

Hint of light, fade of night, Rover Patrol; River mist rising and filling the bowl.

Swing of pack, homeward track.

Every week out and back;

Gipsying, hiking. Just going's our goal.

Off to the Far-Away, Rover Patrol.

—By CLARK ELBERT SCHURMAN.

NEWSBOYS HAVE SCOUT TROOP.

Thirty-three boys attended the first meeting of the Newsboys' Troop of Scouts, composed of boys working for the Muskegon (Mich.) Chronicle.

Scout Executive Charles D. Maddox addressed the boys on "What a Scout Is, and What Is Expected of Him."

Every ear was strained to hear his words. Every boy was held breathless as he was told what a big thing it is to be a scout, and the fact that when business men see a boy wearing the scout badge they know that that boy will be a success.

"No matter if you are a millionaire or the son of a laboring man, you will never be a success in life unless you live up to the scout law, even if you are not a scout," said the executive.

THE BOY SCOUT'S BUSY LIFE.

Montclair, N. J., scout headquarters reports over 500 visitors for week-ends at its winter camp site. In view of the fact that this camp is sixteen miles from council headquarters its extensive use is significant.

Nearly a thousand boy scouts, representing fifty troops, scoured Kansas City, Mo., for violations of the light and fuel orders. Reports made by the scouts to their scoutmasters will be turned over to the fuel administration.

HIS CONSCIENCE IN REVOLT

Killer of Condors Refused to Practice Profession for Any Paltry Remuneration.

In his book, "In the Wilds of South America," Mr. Leo E. Miller tells us that when he went into Argentina on a collecting trip he found an Italian who claimed to be the champion condor hunter of all South America. During ten years he had killed more than sixteen thousand of the magnificent birds. His record for one day was 114. Naturally, they had become greatly reduced in number, for a condor lays no more than two eggs, and it takes many months to rear the young.

The man's method was to drive a burro to some lonely gorge among the bleak mountain tops favored by the birds and then kill the animal. He was very particular in stating that the burro had to be fat—a poor one would not do for bait. He then spread nets about the carcass, and when the condors had gathered about to feast he pulled a rope and ensnared them. On one occasion he snared 87 at one throw of the net. The captured birds were dispatched with a club and the long-wing feathers extracted, to be exported to France to decorate women's hats.

With his accumulated wealth he built a powder mill, but it promptly blew up, and he was virtually penniless. Of course there were condors in the mountains—in fact, he knew of a ledge where more than eight hundred birds were accustomed to congregate to spend the night; but the price of feathers had gone down 50 per cent. He ended his speech in a very dramatic manner.

"What," he said, "me go out and slaughter such a wonderful, magnificent and rare a bird as the condor for ten pesos each? No, señor! Not me!"

AROMA FROM THE BUTTERFLY

Perfumes Pleasant and Unpleasant to Human Nostrils Are Secreted by Both Male and Female.

Peculiarly transformed scales on the wings, or tufts of hairs on other parts of the butterfly exude an aromatic secretion, the secondary significance of which is that it appeals to the female insects. Some of the scents produced by the male Lepidoptera are pleasant to the human olfactory sense, resembling musk, mint, vanilla, honey, and the like; others are suggestive of mice and bats. It is interesting to notice that in some cases, though glandular scales are abundantly present, we cannot smell anything, which probably means that the aromatic substances lie outside our range of olfactory stimulation, just as many rays of light lie beyond our range of vision.

It may be that the volatile poison of toads, known as phrynia, inflames the olfactory membrane if we sniff it, yet there is no smell.

Emily Dickinson.

She was never known to have a lover. She seldom left her father's house in Amherst, Mass., and when she crossed its threshold it was to wander alone in the quaint garden. And she has written some of the most impassioned verse in modern literature. Her solitary life set into the frame of her glowing verse is the answer to the question, "Do writers have to go through the varied phases of life to know 'love'?" Emily Dickinson was born in Amherst in 1830. She died there in 1886. Of her extraordinary verses that were witchery of new forms of expression, regardless of poetic rules, a prominent clergyman and distinguished author of New England, Thomas Wentworth Higginson, said, "When a thought takes your breath away, a lesson on grammar seems impertinence."—Chicago Journal.

The Hat and Religion.

Jews wear their hats in the synagogues. The Friends also sit covered during the offering of prayers. Formerly the custom in the Church of England was for men to sit covered during the sermon. When Richard Cox, bishop of Ely, died in 1581 the congregation, sitting in the choir to hear the sermon, covered their heads.

Revival of the Troubadour.

The troubadour is imagined as a long-haired creature with a big lute. But the real meaning of the word is one who "finds out" his own songs. In Provencal the word is spelled "troubaire" or "trouvador." It comes from the verb troubler—trouble—to find.

Natural Proceeding.

"They had a hard time in that place with the actors representing the elements of the storm."

"How so?"

"The lightning struck."

THE WOMAN'S CLUB

By Mrs. Palmer Rhodes.

The program which is to be presented to the Woman's Club on Monday, March 22nd, should be especially attractive to women as home makers and lovers of beautiful surroundings. Mrs. Henrietta Kapp of Los Angeles will give a talk on interior decorating. Mrs. Kapp has for years made decorating a study, just for pure love for and interest in the subject, and brings with her samples to illustrate the various combinations she so understandingly recommends. Mrs. Kapp has a most charming personality, and wherever she has delivered her lecture, her hearers have been more than delighted.

At 1:30 p. m. on Monday the Dramatic section of the club will convene in the club parlors, at which time Mrs. Goldsmith will take up Irish plays.

Leap Year Ball

Just a word as a reminder of the leap year ball to be given in the club house tonight, Friday. This is to be an evening of real fun. Do not miss it.

LIFE FROM MY WINDOW

(By an ex-Service Man)

Last Saturday morning the postman left in my box a small package. I opened it to find a little book, but who the sender is still a mystery. It was such a helpful book, containing only thirty pages. It was so intensely interesting that I sat down and read it before breakfast. I like the mystery of this book, which is to me a beacon of hope. Possibly the good person who sent it meant me to use it as a theme for my weekly article. I will give you the story very briefly, also the lesson I learn from perusing its pages.

It was one of Annie Fellows Johnston's books, entitled The Desert Waiting. It is the legend of an Arab who was journeying across the desert with his load of merchandise and anxious to reach a certain city by a particular time, so as to enter the city through a Golden Gate, open once a year to admit the Rajahs of the sister cities. Many miles from the city his camel failed him and he could proceed no further.

Shapur was in great desperation, but the poor camel could not move in spite of all his efforts. This delay made it impossible for him to reach the Golden Gate in time. He sat down in the sand and cursed his luck.

In the distance he espied an oasis and on reaching it he found it to be the secret abode of Omar, the hermit. Omar had repaired to the desert's solitude in order to practice his mysterious art. He was an alchemist who had the power to transmute the common things of life into precious ones. He put Shapur to the test by giving him the hardest and most monotonous work to do. He did not like this work, but he stuck to it, although in thought he was with his other companions, who by this time must have entered the Golden Gate.

At last he was rewarded. One day Omar came to him and said: "Well done Shapur. As a reward for your service and solitude, I am giving you a crystal vase filled with a precious attar. Wherever thou goest its sweetness will open up a path for you. If in your journeyings through life you find a soul bowed down by despair, just whisper to them the word, Patience."

And as Shapur, from his desert experience, was taught a lesson from which he extracted victory when all seemed disaster; so might we be alchemists of our own sufferings and disappointments and distill from them precious sweetness that will win us praise and a royal entrance into the City of our Desires.

Dr. W. H. Rawlings, Pastor.
9:45 a. m. Bible School. Adult Bible class conducted by Mr. Francis D. R. Moote.

11:00 a. m. Morning service.
7:00 p. m. Prayer meeting.
7:30 p. m. Evening service,
7:30 p. m. (Wed.) Prayer Meeting.
2:30 p. m. Thursday, Bible class at Mrs. M. O. Downs' on Victoria Lane.

Every branch of the work of Bethany church is budding out and bursting forth in a truly spring-like fashion. Beginning with the primary of the Sunday school, which has grown so that some of the little folks find it necessary to hold their class in the larger assembly room, to the Bible class, conducted by Mr. Francis Moote, which is growing by leaps and bounds.

The congregation meeting for worship Sunday morning was the largest in the history of Bethany church.

The young people are showing special activity in a meeting of their own at 6:30 Sunday evenings. The prayer meeting, that happy unusually blessed hour, on Wednesday evening, is ever attracting more to its gracious privileges.

Even the little folks are looking forward to a Junior meeting all their own in the near future.

The money for the new church home is coming in in ever increasing amounts and it is hoped that before long Bethany church will have a building suitable for her fast growing need.

LIFE BRIGADE ENTERTAINS

The young people of Bethany church, the Bethany Life Brigade, entertained their friends last Friday evening at the home of Miss Ruth Cornuelle. The evening was spent playing games and a jolly good time was enjoyed by all.

Dr. Rawlings and Mr. and Mrs. James Forshaw were present by special invitation and it did the young people good to see the way in which their pastor entered into their fun.

ORDER OF ST. CATHERINE

The girls of St. Catherine are making plans for an Easter sale of cooked foods, consisting of pies, cakes and candies. The sale will be held the Saturday before Easter, April 3.

The meeting of March 2 was held at the home of Mrs. Stella Dennison, and that of March 16 at Miss T. H. Graham's. Miss Martha Shaw will be hostess at the next meeting which will be held on March 30. A full attendance is desired.

The Catholic rectory at Highland and Auburn is remodeled with a study or office in the front part and an added large room at the rear. Father Woodcutter is not only superintending the work, but is working with hammer and saw.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH, ANGLICAN EVANGELICAL

Services will be held Sunday at 11 a. m. at Assembly hall, Fogg building, Colorado and Fair Oaks streets, Pasadena.

The Prince John David, president of St. John's Preceptory of Jerusalem, will deliver an address: Revelations 3:7, "These things saith he that is holy, he that is true, he that hath the key of David, he that openeth, and no man shutteth; and shutteth, and no man openeth; I know thy works: behold, I have set before thee an open door, and no man can shut it." The subject will be treated upon relation to the present grave political and social unrest threatening the world's liberty, and will be the closing address on the Great Conspiracy, the Betrayal, and Restoration.

Service for the sick will be held at St. John's church, Mount Tara, Sierra Madre, on Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 10:30 a. m. "And he sent them to preach the kingdom of God, and to heal the sick" Luke 9:2.

The Prince John David, formerly connected with church missions in India, and whose work for God was recognized far and wide through healing of all manner of diseases, leprosy, cholera, blindness, deafness, paralysis, fevers, insanity and those possessed of evil spirits, will officiate at the services for the sick.

—John David DeWindsor.

ASTHMA

If you can afford to pay $1,000 for a permanent cure, you can be cured first and pay when you are quite sure you are permanently cured. No medicine. This is the only method ever discovered to permanently cure chronic asthma and has never failed. Asthma is not a disease or doctors would have found a remedy long ago.
